ST. LOUIS, MO, February 23, 2016 – For the third consecutive year, Range Logistics has been recognized by the St. Louis Regional Chamber as a finalist for an Arcus Award for Achievement in Multimodal Logistics. Range is nominated for creating an innovative product or service, and achieving revenue and employment growth in the field of Multimodal Logistics.

Latin for “Arch,” the Arcus Awards symbolize the Gateway Arch, the unifying symbol of the St. Louis region. The event will be held Thursday, February 23 at the Hyatt Regency at the Arch, and finalists will be featured at the event for the inspiring work they are doing to make St. Louis a more attractive place for people to live, work and invest.

“Being nominated for a third consecutive year is such an honor,” said Nathan Chew, President of Supply Chain Solutions at Range Logistics. He added, “Our entire team has worked so hard to put a reliable, quality product into the marketplace, and it means everything having someone like the St. Louis Regional Chamber recognize that.”

“The growth of Range Logistics demonstrates the strength of the multimodal logistics in our regional economy, said St. Louis Regional Chamber President and CEO Joe Reagan. Their firm and the other Arcus Awards finalists in this category are authentic examples of companies that are truly inspiring a Greater St. Louis.”
